

Criticism = Racism – the Old Equation

In a propaganda piece from the Maori Party in Sunlive, March 1st entitled 'Unbelievable Racism', Te Ururoa Flavell, Maori Party Co-leader drags out, in mock shock, the old Criticism = Racism equation in a shabby attempt to deflect criticism of the cultural impact assessment provisions in Auckland's Unitary Plan.

Green Party co-leader Metiria Turei accuses National Party MPs of "pure racism" after self-initiated comments in Parliament about her home and clothing.

Criticism unable to be countered rationally is circumvented with "racism!".

Once upon a time in New Zealand, public accusations of 'racism' were a sure-fire way to shut the people up.

The more it was used the more effective it became.

But overuse has taken its toll.

We've crossed the rubicon.

It works the other way now.

The more the part-Maori elite use the old equation, the less effective it becomes.

Keep it up!

You're in a downwind spiral.
